FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION
OFFICE OF SECRETARY

Dear Sir or Madam:

My name is Steve Furze and I am 14 years old. I am writing to you to express my concern about the rating of television shows. I think that rating tv shows is a good idea because many shows have content not suitable for young children. Although the ratings are an important thing, I pay no attention to them. The thing I would like to know is how a show is rated. Let's say there is a show that has a very good message for kids about drugs or violence or something, but is full of violent scenes. How would this show be rated? Another thing is, what is there on tv that is so terrible that I have to wait to be 14 to see it? I can't think of much. I think that tv ratings are good but would be much better with a little refining.

From,

Steve Furze

Dear Mr. Hundt:

As the spiritual leader of the more than 50,000 Catholics of the Diocese of Lubbock, I am encouraging our faithful to participate in the national "Turn Off TV Day" scheduled for February 14, 1997. I will be encouraging additional actions with increasing fervor in the future.

The Federal Communications Commission has failed to enforce Federal broadcast indecency law against television stations in this country. Indecent programming, which is reaching both adults and children in our families, is clearly objectionable.

The rating proposal from the Motion Picture Association of America, which essentially uses age rather than programming content as its criterion, is also completely unacceptable.

Modern television communications, when used properly, can be an effective tool for the betterment of our society. As our television medium is presently being used, however, it is causing serious damage to our families and to our society.

Please exercise much greater vigilance in executing your responsibility as Chairmen of the Federal Communications Committee.

Sincerely yours in Christ,

Dear Chairman Hundt,

Thank you for all you are doing to help families get the best from television.

I am writing to express my dissatisfaction with the new current age-based TV ratings system. I do not feel they give concerned parents enough information to make good judgement as to what children should be allowed to watch.

As a member of the National Association for Family and Community Education, concerned for families, I feel that society as a whole needs to do all we can to help parents to raise decent productive citizens. Children are our most valuable asset.. They are our future!

Please use your position to see that there is a public hearing on the TV Rating system.

Dear Mr. Hundt:

I write to you to express my concern that the TV industry is missing a tremendous opportunity to provide parents with enough information on the shows their kids watch. The proposed age-based rating system does not provide parents with specific information on the content of the programs, which would enable them to make accurate and meaningful decisions about what is appropriate for their children to watch.

A wide range of children's experts -- including Children Now, the American Medical Association, the National Education Association, the American Psychological Association, and the Coalition for America's Children among others -- support a content-based system rather than the proposed age-based one. And two recent polls, by the National PTA and the Media Studies Center, showed that 80% of parents support a descriptive system over a movie-ratings system. I must join the experts and parents in expressing my support for a content-based system and I urge you to respect their judgments and add specific content labels to your ratings system.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Hundt:

I rise to oppose the FCC's TV program labeling as to program content. The freedom of speech as granted under the First Amendment to our Constitution, is being used unwisely in the TV programing in today's society. It has promoted to much sexual freedom, to much violence and to much lack of disipline to the wrong doers. The moral fiber of our country is in "high gear" toward being a very amoral nation.

I support the Parent Teacher Association position as to the labeling of various type of TV programs. I appeal to you for your support in support of this PTA program. The government has a valid

Attention: The Hon. Reed Hundt, Chairman, FCC

Dear Mr. Hundt:

In two (2) days, the sixth annual National Turn Off TV Day will be here. Rather than watch television that day, I will spend quality time in another capacity and the way the television shows are going, you must admit that ANY TIME not watching TV seems to be quality time. With a few exceptions...but very few. What has happened?????

The TV rating systems are flawed and I encourage you...and pray for you...to enforce the broadcast indecency law against TV stations. Someone MUST take a stand. Is that you???

"The Supreme Court has stated there is a 'right of the nation...to maintain a decent society,' and a decent society cannot be maintained simply by giving parents a 'V-chip' to fend off a flood tide of indecent TV programming engulfing the nation".

And we wonder why our children are going astray. They are "sponges" soaking up what they see. If they continue to see violence, they will become immune to it....if they continue to see immorality, it will become a part of their life. Is that the kind of country we want??? I am a mother and grandmother and I say, NOW IS THE TIME FOR ACTION.

Will you PLEASE be a part of setting this country on the right path? I pray that you do.

Respectfully,

I am a 62 year old grandmother of seven and a retired Registered Nurse. I am very concerned about the lack of morality in America. It seems every TV season there is more & more sex, violence & indecency exploited on the screen for all to see. My husband and I are very offended by all this garbage for our grandchildren to absorb into their brains - little by little this evil is filtered into them. The behavior of the young people are proving this.

The failure of the FCC to enforce the Federal Broadcast indecency law against TV stations seems to fall on your conscience as chairman. I wouldn't want to be judged before God on this evil, would you? Please change your policy and enforce the indecency law against TV stations.

Also, I'm asking you to reject the G-rated ratings proposed from the Motion Picture Association of America and substitute instead a system that rates programming by content, as parents demand.

Even a relatively good program is sometimes blemished by disgusting, suggestive, sexual advertisement. Satan certainly has a way of getting into our minds, doesn't he? Thanks for all that you can do in these matters.

Dear Mr. Hundt:

I am writing to complain about the application of FCC rules that limit the television stations that cable services can offer. My problem is the rule that allows a "local" station that provides national network coverage to bar cable services from carrying that same network from another community.

Maybe there was at one time some reason for such a rule to "protect" small, local TV stations from competition from larger metropolitan stations. This seems to me, however, to run counter to the current notion that government intervention in economic matters should be limited.

The specific problem that I hope you can help resolve concerns the recent reshuffling of network television service in northern Alabama. TV 40 in Anniston merged with TV 33 in Huntsville and changed from CBS to ABC. Although both communities were promised that the new station would continue to serve their local markets, the new station really concentrates on the primary market in this area, Birmingham. I do not particularly like this as, like most people, I have an affection for my community and its institutions, the local TV station included. But if the local market cannot support a separate network TV station, so be it. I can survive.

What I really resent, however, is the fact that the new "local" station has the power to bar the local cable from carrying its network to my home. I used to be able to watch ABC from Atlanta. My new "local" station, TV 40/33, has exercised its right to bar the local cable from continuing this service.

Please look into this. If there is anything the FCC can do to get Atlanta ABC service back to Calhoun County, I would appreciate it. If the FCC is bound by legislative rules that allow TV40/33 to deny us this freedom of viewing choice, please advise me what the specific rules are so that I can approach my Congressional delegation to see if the governing legislation can be changed.

Sincerely,

Daniel E. Spector, PhD

Dear Sir:

I would like to tell you that I no longer watch the ABC network and why.

The television stations in northern Alabama recently shuffled their network coverage. Our local station, Channel 40, merged with Channel 33 and switched from CBS to ABC. That is not the problem. The local cable carries all networks.

But there is a problem. Actually two problems. First of all, the new Channel 40/33 assured this community that it would continue to be our "local" station although it would now also serve the Birmingham and Huntsville areas. That promise has not been kept. Coverage of local events has been atrocious. In the case of weather alerts coverage has bordered on irresponsible. Calhoun County citizens now watch Channels 13 or 6 from Birmingham for quicker, more accurate data on emergencies.

The other problem is the inability of our local cable service to continue to carry the Atlanta ABC station and keep us up to date on what is going on there. That is important to many of us as this community is almost as close to Atlanta as it is to Birmingham, and actually closer than it is to Huntsville. Channel 40/33 has requested that service be discontinued as they are our local ABC station and have this right under FCC rules. When my wife called to complain, the arrogant reply was that Channel 40/33 had this right, and that any business would take the opportunity to cut off competition if it could do so legally. My wife responded that she was in business herself and her response to competition was to work harder. That left no impression on the management of Channel 40/33.

To conclude, ABC has lost two viewers in this household. I suspect that it has lost many other viewers in this area. Your national advertisers will eventually suffer, as will your Atlanta advertisers. If this is your normal manner of operation, you and your stockholders have a problem.

Sincerely,

Daniel E. Spector, PhD

REED HUNDT, Chairman FCC 1919 M St. Washington, D.C. 20554
Kalamazoo Cable Television Administrator 230 E. Crosstown Pkwy Kal, MI 49001

To Whom it may concern: NBC-Ch 8 Kalamazoo area

As of January 1, 1997, WOOD-TV Channel 8 NBC has pulled it's signal from the Kalamazoo area serviced by Cablevision of Michigan. This is the third time in less then three years that conflict has arisen. The Federal Communication Commission headed by Reed E. Hundt has been of no help and neither has the Kalamazoo Cable Television Administrator. It seems that Wood-TV8 (NBC) and Cablevision don't want to resolve this issue in the best interest of the consumers in this area, I would like to make my own suggestion to resolve this issue. It is as follows:

Since I consider BROADCAST BASIC as ABC, CBS and NBC, the monthly charge for this service is $8.57. I want Cablevision of Michigan to credit my account #07813-015096-01-0 with 1/3 of the monthly charge or $2.86 per month plus the monthly FCC charge of .04¢ and the City of Kalamazoo franchise fee of $1.00 until this issue is resolved and the consumers receive all of the major TV networks broadcasting. This total would amount to $3.90 per month credit to each and every user of Cablevision of Michigan. The FCC should not be paid the .04¢ monthly user FEE because they haven't earned it. The City of Kalamazoo should give up their $1.00 FEE also.

To solve the issue, I propose that WOOD-TV8 NBC pay 50% of the local advertising revenue and 33 1/3% of the national advertising revenue to Cablevision of Michigan for carrying the NBC TV-8 signal. In return Wood-TV8 should be compensated with a reasonable user fee for allowing Cablevision of Michigan to carry it's signal.

I place the blame for our problem solely on Reed E. Hundt and the Federal Communication Commission for all of their AMBIGUOUS RULINGS. If anybody in the FCC had any common sense they would have settled this long ago with a uniform regulation throughout the whole United States. Leaving it up to the locals doesn't do the job.

As a user of cable television, I want what I'm paying for. It seems that nobody cares about the consumer, all we do is pay the bills.

Respectfully,

Dear Sir,

I am President of Pine Grove Elementary School's PTA and support the National PTA and Maryland's PTA in their efforts to reject as inadequate the television industry's recent age-based rating system.

Personally, I think 8 to 9 p.m. Eastern Standard Time should be designated for children's programming, 10 to 11 p.m. should be for adult programming and 9 to 10 p.m. should be for appropriate programs in between.

Most of the shows in prime time seem to be routinely designated PG. Having so many shows rated PG in and of itself reduces the usefulness of the system and often makes it meaningless.

The show Friends, is an exception that is rated higher; but is on at 8 p.m. This shows the hollowness and cynicism of the system. Friends is a great show and its popularity makes it a good lead off show that the industry hopes will keep viewers tuned to the same station for shows that follow. The industry by their own system recognize that Friends should be on later at night; but show it at 8 to generate ratings which generate ad revenue.

Please encourage a system that is useful for parents and provides parents with real information. The key to this system should be a concerted effort to require 8 to 9 p.m. to be a children's hour which would push the industry to develop true children's programming.

The National Association for Family and Community Education and its affiliate, North Carolina Extension Homemakers Association, are grass-roots organizations which have been actively involved in family issues for the past 60 years. We are concerned that the family issue of the recently implemented television rating system does not address the needs of parents.

The questions generated by the current age-based television rating system deserve a public hearing. We urge you to hold such a hearing soon on this issue which is so important to families in America today.

Sincerely, Bernadine Sandquist
